

Reclaiming America's History

Old World Timber's Heartland Barnwood products are reclaimed from the siding and timbers of barns and other antique structures throughout the United States. Instead of this wood going into burn piles and crowding up landfills, we give these boards new life by repurposing them into products such as wallboard paneling.

Our weathered barnwood comes from decades old thoroughbred horse farms, old tobacco barns, and rural structures across our North American heartland. The grain designs, saw marks, and character marks are waiting to add to the story of your home, office, restaurant, or any other creative space you're dreaming up.
